Home Education Instructional Program · 2026–2027

Program Overview

Chanak Home Education Instructional Program provides parent-selected academic support for Florida home education families. Students receive remote academic sessions, guided coursework, individualized planning, progress monitoring, assessment, bilingual family guidance, and access to an online learning environment. The parent or guardian directs the student's home education program. These offerings do not constitute full-time enrollment in Chanak International Academy and do not include school-of-record services, official school transcripts, credits, or a diploma.

Core Components for All Students

- Remote academic sessions with a Chanak mentor to explain concepts, answer questions and plan the week.
- Individualized learning plan based on the student's diagnostic results and academic level.
- Guided coursework with assignment review and feedback.
- Progress monitoring and periodic assessment shared with the family.
- Online learning platform access and bilingual (English/Spanish) student and family support.
- Life Skills and Leadership learning activities, included in every program.

Life Skills and Leadership Activities

Life Skills and Leadership is included at every level and adapted to the student's age. Activities focus on character formation, communication, responsibility, goal setting, teamwork and leadership, and are delivered through guided activities and mentor sessions.

Curriculum

Chanak recommends curriculum and the sequence of subjects after reviewing the diagnostic results. The parent or guardian retains final responsibility for selecting and approving any curriculum materials, which are purchased separately and are not included in the monthly fee.
