Keep your school, add a U.S. route

Students continue their current school or local pathway. Chanak reviews official records and identifies the U.S. requirements still to be completed. The student's grade, English level, available time and goals determine the individual Route Plan.

Transfer by documented evidence

For eligible profiles, up to 18 of 24 credits may come from prior records. Recognition requires an individual audit of subjects, grades, content and workload. Neither a percentage nor a completion date is guaranteed before review.

Academic English

Academic English develops comprehension, writing, argument, vocabulary and communication for academic work. The family dossier describes a 2-3-credit pathway adjusted to level. The exact English courses and any recognized credits are determined in the individual audit.

U.S. History and civic understanding

American History develops understanding of the United States through evidence and historical reasoning. U.S. Government and Economics address civic institutions, rights, responsibilities and economic decision-making. The individual plan specifies required courses and credit allocation.

Your family's pathway

Bible, character and service

The pathway includes Bible according to the plan, with New Testament study and optional Old Testament study where applicable. Biblical worldview is applied to learning, character and decisions. Life Skills & Leadership contributes one credit when planned outcomes and evidence are completed.

Life Skills stages

Juniors (8-13), Seedling (14), Explorer (15), Builder (16) and Launch (17) organize age-appropriate challenges. The high-school pathway integrates habits, vocation, service, leadership, finance and a life project as applicable.

Learning platform and SIS

The learning platform organizes courses, materials, tasks and evidence. The SIS records approved academic progress, credits and school documents. Coordinators guide the complete plan; teacher access follows assigned areas. Separate systems may require distinct accounts.

Admission and workload

Start with orientation, submit official school records, complete placement and audit, confirm the Route Plan and formalize admission. Weekly workload and a 2-, 3- or 4-year route depend on the entry point and outstanding credits; individual feasibility is reviewed.

Your documents and next destination

The local school issues its own qualification. Chanak issues the U.S. transcript and diploma after graduation requirements are fulfilled. Apostille and translation are optional when required. Participation does not require automatic local equivalence; specific uses may require a receiving authority's decision.

Documents and recognition

Academic records are issued according to the contracted program and completed requirements. An apostille authenticates a document; recognition or equivalence is decided by the receiving authority when required for a specific use.
